Dos hombres hablan solos para iniciar un diálogo con un tercero. Mi padre y mi hermano viven y se relacionan con el mundo en soledad. En medio, intento componer una historia y un presente que los dos han decidido que sea el parón definitivo a sus vidas. Sin saberlo, los dos responden a la constelación familiar de los hombres de la familia Rolland que parecen destinados a terminar mal. A través de sus palabras y la cámara se forja una melodía que busca romper el destino que en apariencia nos espera a los tres.

Two men speak alone to start a dialogue with a third party. My father and brother live and relate to the world in solitude. In between, I try to compose a story and a present that both have decided that it is the final break in their lives. Unknowingly, the two respond to the family constellation of the men of the Rolland family who seem destined to end badly. Through his words and the camera, a melody is forged that seeks to break the fate that apparently awaits us all.
